CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS

FROM THE HEAD OF SCHOOLS

Welcome to the Incoming Class of 2036!

Last week, one of our young students shared a shocking fact with his friend. His eyes widened as he whispered in disbelief: "My mom was born in the nineteen-hundreds." He said it as if she were a century old. Timeframes can sometimes sound surreal. Two weeks ago, we hosted our annual "Kindergarten Roundup," for more than twenty kindergarteners. Those little ones will be the Class of 2036. The date caught my attention because my granddaughter was in the group. It is mind boggling to imagine kindergartners as future graduates, and yet I've witnessed it year after year since 1982 when I began my career in K-12 Christian education.

I have often compared teaching in a K-12 school like CCS to that relationship between a stationary tree on a riverbank and the flowing river beside it. Many of us here at CCS have spent a lifetime in one or two schools planted like a tree on a riverbank. We've touched the lives of hundreds of students who pass through our lives the way a beautiful river flows by. Months and semesters at a time, the students are constantly becoming who they will someday be, constantly flowing toward the place God would have them go. The tree remains; the roots remain; the good soil and shade remain, but the students pass along until graduation day, that time when the familiar confinement of riverbanks opens up to the big lake beyond.

The older I get, the more the passage of time and students feels this way. My first year of teaching was with the Senior Class of 1982. I was only six years older than those students. My first year as Head of Schools here at CCS was with CCS Senior Class of 2001 (Nick and Laura Lockwood were in that class.) The age difference between me and this year's graduating seniors is nearly fifty years. Oops! Did I just admit that? And now here we are welcoming the Class of 2036. The river flows on... and we are truly blessed beside it as Psalm 1:3 says: "He is like a tree planted by streams of water that yields its fruit in its season, and its leaf does not wither. In all he does, he prospers." - Tom Kapanka, Head of Schools
