To Begin With: Life Comes Full Circle

Life often seems circular. For most American children the first set of circles is the rhythm of school years from elementary to middle school to high school. Then comes the first transitional spin from high school to life beyond as the final days of “senior year” drop off like tulip petals to the ground.

I graduated from high school in 1974. At that time, America was still singing a very popular Coke commercial called “I’d like to teach the world to sing” by an English pop group called “The New Seekers.” They had another popular hit in 1972 called “Circles.” Here are the first two Stanzas:

*All my life's a circle
Sunrise and sundown
The moon rose through the nighttime
Till the day break comes around
All my life's a circle
But I can't tell you why
The seasons spinning round again
The years keep rolling by*

*It seems like I've been here before
I can't remember when
But I've got this funny feeling
That I'll be back once again
There's no straight lines make up my life
And all my roads have bends
There's no clear-cut beginnings
And so far no dead-ends.*

(Listen to the whole song at the blog version of this article at www.calvaryeagles.org)

Three weeks ago, my wife and I were bopping around Orlando with the CCS Class of 2019 on Senior Trip. As we traveled from iconic park to park each day, the kids played Spotify songs from their phones. The girls did the same thing in their van. (BTW, the boy-girl split just happened naturally because of numbers. They all get along just fine.) On most days, the music was an eclectic mix, but on the way to “Animal Kingdom,” a day that included “The Lion King Show,” my van-full of boys suddenly started singing fluently in Zulu. I will say that CCS has an excellent Foreign Language Program., but until that moment, I did not know they had learned to sing in Zulu.

*Nants ingonyama bagithi Baba
[Here comes a lion, Father]*

*Sithi uhm ingonyama
[Oh yes, it's a lion]*

That’s just the intro. You know the rest, but you’ve never heard “The Circle of Life,” until you hear the CCS boys of 2019 singing it at the top of their lungs on their way to the Animal Kingdom. Here are the words:

*From the day we arrive on the planet
And blinking, step into the sun
There's more to see than can ever be seen
More to do than can ever be done
There's far too much to take in here
More to find than can ever be found
But the sun rolling high
Through the sapphire sky
Keeps great and small on the endless round
It's the Circle of Life
And it moves us all
Through despair and hope
Through faith and love
Till we find our place
On the path unwinding
In the Circle
The Circle of Life*

(Listen to the whole song at the CCS blog)

For all you Lion King fans, the “live” version comes out on July 19, but I digress....

My point is that throughout history, man has spoken of life in terms of repeating circles. We see it in the Bible, too. It is true in a literal sense. Even when man’s science spoke of a flat earth, the Bible spoke of a created round earth. Isaiah 40:22a says, “It is He who sits above the circle of the earth, and its inhabitants are like grasshoppers...” But the figurative sense of a circular “repeating” history of man is also implied in the Bible.

In Ecclesiastes 1:9, we read : “What has been is what will be,/ and what has been done is what will be done,/ and there is nothing new under the sun.”

On the third day of Senior Trip, my van-full of boys began a long trip home from Clearwater. It was dark, and the boys were tired. One might think they would all fall asleep, but no. Heading east from Tampa, a play list of praise and worship songs began, and for the next 1 hour and 45 minutes, we sang praises together all the way to Orlando. I’ll never forget it. What a blessing to have a man from the Class of ’74 singing praise with the Class of ’19. Calvary is a place where such things happen.

So my word to our seniors is this: There are times when life feels circular, like each day is just “wash, rinse, repeat.” Some call it a rut. Some call it déjà vu. But as I begin my twentieth year at Calvary, I call the cycles of our student life a wonderful circle worth repeating. We love to hear of our CCS students continuing on for the Lord, and for many to hear of marriages and kids, and what a joy to have alumni children enroll at CCS! We regularly see alumni come back to make sure the CCS circle is unbroken. They love to know the traditions and calendar events unique to CCS continue, but more importantly they are glad to see our focus remains on “He who sits above the circle of the earth.”

Paul reminds us in I Corinthians 12 that, “God has combined the members of the body” so that “its parts should have equal concern for each other.” He goes on to say, “now you are the body of Christ and each one of you is a part of it.” God views each part of the body as important and equal. He values each of us and we should share His value of others. One of the ways the CCS culture is remarkable is that we value each other. As we see others in the body as Christ sees us, His love pours out through us and we help to build the body up. We do this together to enhance the remarkable culture of CCS and create a movement of goodness for all. As we look inside ourselves and allow God to change us for His glory, we will be better equipped to add to the remarkable culture and inspire others to do the same. So let’s believe the best in each other and want the best for each other and expect the best from each other.

One of the ways we enhance our remarkable culture at CCS is through excellent leadership. I believe that the 2019-2020 school board does just that. We are so pleased to welcome new board members Patrick Colunga, Brian Michelli, Amanda Moblo, and Deron Nelson. These newly elected school board members will each serve 3 year terms. The four bring excellent gifts, talents and passion to the board. They are excited to begin their new roles in July and further advance our school’s mission of “Partnering with parents to equip students toward personal excellence and the pursuit of God’s purpose for their lives.” I also want to thank two stalwarts of the board who have chosen to retire after June. Jim Verboncouer and Ken Wolffis have been faithful, sacrificial leaders on the board for many years and we will miss them.

The board will seek to communicate better than ever with our school family this year. As always, we welcome any school family member or interested party to attend our full board meetings. These are usually conducted every other month, with the full board schedule for the upcoming year being confirmed in July. Every board meeting has 15 minutes at the beginning of the agenda designated as a Parent Forum. This is an opportunity for you to share your thoughts and concerns publically with the board. Our meetings are usually held in room D101. Please pray for the board to have wisdom, unity, and vision for the school. May the Spirit direct us. We anticipate a great school year in 2019-2020, as already God has answered our prayers and provided for our needs in some very unique ways. More on that later, but realize that He who began a good work at CCS almost 40 years ago will be faithful to complete it in US!!

Let’s all choose to be REMARKABLE for God and add value to each other and our school culture. Have a sensational summer and best wishes to all our graduates-that they would continue to grow in their faith and passion for God. We are so proud of all of them and will miss their presence in our school building. Come back and visit often! Parents of Seniors, you are important to us. We hope you continue to be involved in our school family.

May God bless our entire CCS family!
